

transfer

European Review of Labour and Research Quarterly of the ETUI Research Department

February 2021
Volume 27 Number 1

Industrial relations and inequality: the many conditions of a crucial relationship

Articles

Lisa Dorigatti and Roberto Pedersini

Industrial relations and inequality: the many conditions of a crucial relationship

p. 11

Maarten Keune

Inequality between capital and labour and among wage-earners: the role of collective bargaining and trade unions

p. 29

Maria da Paz Campos Lima, Diogo Martins, Ana Cristina Costa and António Velez

Internal devaluation and economic inequality in Portugal: challenges to industrial relations in times of crisis and recovery

p. 47

Monika Martišková, Marta Kahancová and Jakub Kostolný

Negotiating wage (in)equality: changing union strategies in high-wage and low-wage sectors in Czechia and Slovakia

p. 75

Egídio Riva and Roberto Rizza

Who receives occupational welfare? The importance of skills across Europe's diverse industrial relations regimes

p. 97

Ruth Barton, Élodie Béthoux, Camille Dupuy, Anna Ilsoe, Patrice Jalette, Mélanie Laroche, Steen Erik Navrbjerg and Trine Pernille Larsen

Understanding the dynamics of inequity in collective bargaining: evidence from Australia, Canada, Denmark and France

p. 113